Table terms

Shorthand used in this file. Not player-facing unless you choose to say it.

Term	Means
Hydra	The whole rear signals station. Not one building.
Head	One killable part. There are three: board (Altrathausplatz), loft (Grüner Turm), books (Brandt's satchel). Cut any two and the hydra dies. Hitting one and leaving is not the job.
False head	The Rathaus. Ward pins it. Cutting it does not count.
Wounded hydra	One real head off, two still live. It can still scream.
Scream	The hydra calling for help: landline from the board, radio from the loft, or papers still useful enough to pass traffic.
Dummy site	Same as false head. Empty as an exchange. Officers may still keep an office there.
Planned DZ	West / Segringer Tor. What Ward marks in the briefing.
Actual LZ	East / Wörnitz, south of Wörnitztor. Mark after they orient. Not a briefing mark.
Fuse	Stein and/or Keller starting a local hunt or curfew. Not a battalion arriving. Out-of-town help needs a living path and time.

Hydra tracker (GM): □ board (Altrathausplatz) □ loft (Grüner Turm) □ books (Brandt / satchel). Any two off = hydra dead. One off = wounded; it can still scream. Rathaus does not get a box.

Notation

Rule	This adventure
First NPC / named creature mention	ALL-CAPS in that situation, then title case
Trait tests	Notice (-4), Persuasion, Survival — no invented skill names
Information rolls	Fail, success, and raise are always stated
Quoted speech	Lines the GM can speak; not a read-aloud script. Carry speech in Spoken lines or a blockquote that opens with "
Mood	Mood (table): one flowing paragraph describing the place. Player-perceivable only. Not a read-aloud. No secrets
GM Note	Secret; never player-facing
Optional material	Labeled Optional; does not gate the main objective
PC-specific hooks	Labeled PC hook — named PC; never the only vector

World rule, say once: gender is not a question. No gendered cover assignment.

Payload lives in the story point (or lookup) named. Do not hunt an earlier section for speech or stats.

Opening mood

MOOD — READ THE ROOM

GM throughline of the night. Do not speak this as the landing. Story-point Mood (table) is what you paraphrase when that situation is on.

Calm briefing in Pont-à-Mousson, then a truck, then weather that is not the classroom, flak under the flight, then snow on the unplanned face of a sleeping walled town. Two heads. That is the whole job.

First 15 minutes

Not a scene. Do not speak Ward here. Play Story

Point 0, then 0b, then 1.

A calm briefing is the start, not the opening trouble. Compress it (8–10 minutes including a kit ask). The jump is spectacle. Landing on the unplanned face and having to orient is the first decision that matters.

- Handed: player copy of BG-OH-001 (maps/garrison map.png, Handout A). Team kit on the table. GM copy stays hidden or token-only.
- Where they are: first a commandeered schoolroom in Pont-à-Mousson; then one transport; then together in cover, east / Wörnitz face, south of Wörnitztor, off the Bahnhof.
- Trouble already in motion: weather worse than briefed; west fields not readable; en-route flak; they come down on the unplanned face and must discover that. Stale Rathaus target is in the pack, not yet visible. Urgent-mission trouble, not an ambush. Do not add a fake opening fight. Do not let the jump Wound, split, or strip them.

- First decision: after they orient — how to close from the water — Wörnitztor, postern, wall, or a circuit to another face. Other gates are thinner than Wörnitztor; a circuit costs time, not a travel map.
- Gates and the circuit (after SP6).
- If this block overruns: skip the kit ask and extra PC chat; green light; they are in the snow; ask them to read the map against the water.

Stats: Ward in SP0; jump rule in SP0b; night and Wörnitztor in SP1.

Mission in 30 seconds

- Premise: Four Seasoned Allies briefed in Pont-à-Mousson, dropped onto Dinkelsbühl, early January 1945, winter night.
- Player objective: kill the hydra (any two of board, loft, books). The Rathaus does not count.
- GM intent: calm briefing, rough jump, improvisation after a stale target pack; hollow town; no occult; gender not a question.

- Immediate stakes: short night; they are not on the rehearsed face; dummy building wastes time; a living hydra can scream.
- Starting decision: after they orient on the east face — how to close from the unplanned water side.

Current situation

Phase A — table start (SP0): Keene, Krajewski, Vasseur, Lang and CAPT. ELLIS WARD in a commandeered schoolroom, Pont-à-Mousson. Voss missed this lift. Player copy unmarked until you pin planned DZ and Rathaus in SP0.

Phase B — after the jump (SP1): four together on the east / Wörnitz face, south of Wörnitztor. Night of 6–7 January 1945. Default light: Dark (–4). Hollow town. No occult. Ward is off-map. They may not yet have marked the actual LZ.

Who	Where	Doing
Keene, Krajewski, Vasseur, Lang	East LZ, outside, south of Wörnitztor	Together; must orient
Capt. Ellis Ward	Off-map (Pont-à-Mousson)	Gone
2 gate watch (Volkssturm / convalescent Extras)	Wörnitztor gatehouse	Stove, thin, not a fight they must take
Gefr. Lina Hofmann	Rathaus, ground floor	Late clerk, one lamp, cold
Hptm. Friedrich Stein	Quarters on or just off Weinmarkt, near the Rathaus	Off the floor unless woken
Oblt. Marta Keller	North wall-walk, Rothenburger Tor–Grüner Turm	Slow night round
2 signals operators (Extras)	Altrathausplatz exchange	Live board, low traffic
1 loft watch (Extra)	Grüner Turm	Cold, aerial live
Fw. Otto Brandt	Billet on Nördlinger Straße (SE)	Papers in a satchel in the room
Pvt. Louis Benoit	Cellar off Altrathausplatz	Hidden; not the only intel
Cpl. Pieter Voss	Off-map until re-entry	Reserve
Civilians	Houses	Blackout, a few late windows
Bahnhof	East, outside	Empty or one sleeper. Map's 15-man watch is stale. Not a fourth head.

No one else is required to be on the street.

Pacing dashboard

Runtime point	Expected position	Optional cut if behind
Opening (first 10–15 min)	Briefing compressed; jump spectacle; they orient on the east face	Skip kit ask and extra chat; they are on the snow reading the map
Midpoint	Dummy site is wrong or they have read the town; one head in play	Dummy building is one short read, not a crawl
Climax window	Second head while the fuse is live	Do not skip this for a leftover room fight; compress, do not omit
Final quarter	Out under the cost they earned	Collapse extraction to cost, not a second map

FIVE-BEAT DASHBOARD

Not a visit order. Jump to the situation they are in.
Scores: QUALITY.md (98/120).

Beat	Story point(s)	Table cue
Explosive opening	SPO, SPob, SP1	Calm briefing; flak and bad weather; wrong face they must discover. Not a fight.
Investigation and choices	SP2–5	Dummy vs town; any two heads; method of kill. Skip SP2 if they never go.
Escalation or reversal	SP2; clocks	Rathaus is a false head. Fuse, scream, dawn. One twist only. Missed DZ is not a second twist.
Climactic set piece	Second head + live fuse (SP6)	Opposition, ice/streets/height, scream or dawn clock, civilians or exit — not “kill everyone.”
Consequences and closure	End states	Hydra dead or not. 1 Advance only if the table continues.

3–4 hour core: compress SPO+Ob; SP1 as one close after they orient; dummy as a short read or skip; two heads; compressed exit under the fuse. Cut civilian linger, officer capture, long chase, second town.

Climax situation

Index only. Run the live head's story point (SP3, 4, or 5) and Story Point 6. Do not script the outcome.

- Location: whichever head is second (Altrathausplatz board, Grüner Turm loft, or Nördlinger papers) and the streets that feed it. If both heads are already dead, the climax is the way out under the hunt they earned.
- Opposition (Wild Cards / Extras): remaining watch at that pin (SP3–5), plus HPTM. FRIEDRICH STEIN (SP2) and/or OBLT. MARTA KELLER (SP4) if the fuse is lit, plus one hunt pair (SP6). Move pins; do not add a battalion, MG42, or Experienced infantry.
- Environment and interactive features: ice and tight lanes; height and feed line if the loft; civilian houses and fire risk if the board; satchel/stove/street door if papers; sound carries in the cold.
- Urgency / countdown: if only one head is dead, the hydra can still scream. Dawn puts more eyes on the same map. A hunt closes the gate they already used.

- Secondary objective besides defeating everyone: finish the second head or stop the scream and get the four off the board. Civilians in the line are a cost, not a hidden auto-fail. Capture of an officer is optional.
- Spoken lines, stats, rules: the live head's SP, plus SP6 (hunt pair, extraction).
- If time is short: still run this compressed — one location, the fuse on the table, the scream clock if it applies, then “you are out, at this cost.” Do not skip it in favor of a leftover room fight. A long vehicle chase is the cut.

GM ONLY — DO NOT READ ALOUD

GM Note: Out-of-town help needs a living path and time. This is still a hollow town. Dummy wreck was never success.

SP 0 Briefing in Pont-à-Mousson

MOOD — READ THE ROOM

Mood (table): Stove heat fills the commandeered classroom, coats still on despite it. Blackout paper covers the windows; kit is stacked by the door, and Ward stands over the table with a folder and the November sheet spread flat. Beyond the paper, the street outside sounds quiet — no front, no shells on the roof. This is rear-area calm; the only pressure here is the clock.

- Goal: put HQ's picture of the town in their hands, let the four talk, mark only what the briefing is allowed to know.
- Situation now: first thing at the table. Commandeered schoolroom, Pont-à-Mousson. CAPT. ELLIS WARD believes the pack. Player copy of BG-OH-001. Kit on the table. One room. Optional short walk to a shed. Not a second map. Voss is not here. Do not play an attack on Ward.
- Spoken lines (CAPT. ELLIS WARD): speak these four beats while you mark the player copy. He is briefing a raid, not reciting a code. Do not ad-lib the east LZ or any live head.

At briefing, mark the player copy. Full pin list: maps/README.md.

1. Planned DZ. West, outside Segringer Tor. That is where Ward says they will come down. 2. Named target. Circle the Rathaus. No radio icon. No live heads.

Do not mark the actual east LZ, switchboard, Grüner Turm loft, papers, or NCO on this copy at briefing.

SPOKEN LINE — READ ALOUD

“This is Operation Hinterland. You jump tonight — sixth into the seventh of January. Nordwind is on in Alsace. That is the clock. You are not going to that front. You are going into German rear, to Dinkelsbühl, a walled town in Franconia, two hundred and fifty kilometres and more from the fighting. There is a signals station there still passing traffic toward Alsace. If it keeps talking, their movement on the southern front stays coordinated. Your job is to shut that station down.”

Hand the November sheet. Point as you talk. Then mark the west DZ.

SPOKEN LINE — READ ALOUD

“This sheet is what HQ has. Garnisonsplan. Face date November forty-four — not tonight’s photograph, but the walls, the water, and the gates have not moved. Closed wall. Four gates. River and ponds drawn on the east of the picture: that is the Würnitz. West face is dry fields, road out toward Segringen. That west gate is Segringer Tor. You drop west of the walls, outside that gate. Rehearsed close is Segringer Tor. Rear-area town: civilians in their houses, a thin garrison, not a fortress. You are not there to fight the garrison or empty the houses.”

Circle the Rathaus. No radio icon.

SPOKEN LINE — READ ALOUD

“The station is not one radio shack. HQ calls it a hydra. Three heads: the landline board — the exchange — an aerial that talks over the air, and the books, the traffic they still pass. Cut two and it dies. Cut only one and it is wounded — the rest can still talk. We have one pin: the Rathaus, here, center, Segringer Straße at the Weinmarkt. That is the exchange as HQ has it. Find the aerial and the books on the ground. Any two down, the hydra is dead. Wrecking masonry is not the mission. The hydra is.”

SPOKEN LINE — READ ALOUD

“The officers named as responsible are Hauptmann Stein and Oberleutnant Keller. They are people, not the objective. There is no second mission: no prisoners, no photographs, no side errand. Extraction is yours after two heads are off. Questions, then the truck.”

SPOKEN LINE — READ ALOUD

Spoken lines (answers, only if asked): If they dawdle: “The strip won’t wait on a better map.” If they ask where the aerial or the books sit, or for a room that kills the hydra: “That’s the pack. That’s what you jump with.” If they ask whether the Rathaus is the radio: “The Rathaus is the exchange. The aerial is a second head. You find it in town.”

- Discoverable:

Trait	Fail	Success	Raise ★
Notice (the sheet)	Civic pile circled; west fields named as the drop.	Water is drawn on the east of the picture. Remember that.	The Rathaus is a civic block, not a marked radio. November date is on the face.
Persuasion (kit ask)	Ward or the shed says no, or they get nothing useful. Team kit unchanged.	Ordinary extra: spare mag, gloves, a lamp, extra cutters, or one extra ½-lb TNT.	Same class of extra, a little faster. No second satchel. No live-head intel.

- Pressure/escalation: none on Dinkelsbühl. If the room talks too long, skip kit and extra chat and put them on the truck.
- Essential information and vectors: handed in Ward’s four beats and the two marks. Do not wait for SP2 to name the types. Do not dump live locations. Map’s east water is the later orient cue.
- Failure changes: if marks skipped, stop and mark. A refused kit ask does not change the mission.
- Reachable next points: Story Point ob.
- PC hook — Keene: Loyal / Stubborn — make sure the four have the same picture before they walk out. Not a unique key.
- PC hook — Krajewski: counts charges aloud (Quirk) while the kit is on the table. Driven — he already hates wasting charges on the wrong masonry.

- PC hook — Vasseur: Curious — the November date offends her trade. Cautious — she still jumps.
- PC hook — Lang: names Segringer Tor (Quirk). Useful color; not the only way to know the planned west close.

GM ONLY — DO NOT READ ALOUD

GM Note: Do not mark the actual east LZ or the three real heads on the player copy. Ward is not lying; he believes the Rathaus is a head. It is a false head. The 468 overlay is stale or invented intel. The Rathaus was the imperial post house until 1855 — fair leftover, still not the exchange. Ordinary extras only. Time-box 8–10 minutes including a kit ask.

Story Point ob - The jump

MOOD — READ THE ROOM

Mood (table): Colder and darker than the classroom, wind cutting through the airframe as engines drone and bursts flash somewhere below. Four in one stick, no readable fields, no town they can name — just flak flashes under the flight path, not a fight. It's already worse than the briefing.

- Goal: thrill, and the cause of the missed DZ. Spend little clock. No mechanical teeth.

- Situation now: one transport. Weather worse than briefed. West DZ not readable. Flak en route, not Dinkelsbühl's. Four in one stick. Ward is not aboard. Crew is color. Do not fight gunners. Do not bench a chute.
- Spoken lines: Crew, if you want a voice: "Green light. Go." A PC can swear. No German voices from the dark.
- Discoverable:

Trait	Fail	Success	Raise ★
Athletics (chute; flavor only)	Ugly ride: twisted lines, tracer close, a hard opening. Same snow.	Clean enough. Same snow.	A moment of ugly beauty — flak, a dark shape of walls far off. Same snow.

- Pressure/escalation: none on Dinkelsbühl. Cut to snow.
- Essential information and vectors: the drop did not go as rehearsed; they are still four. The aircraft; the weather; the dark. No Notice gate to be allowed to land.

- Failure changes: uglier description. Same ditch.
- Reachable next points: Story Point 1.
- Optional / PC hook: omit. Anyone may roll; no one must.

GM ONLY — DO NOT READ ALOUD

GM Note: Ignore Wounds, Fatigue, lost gear, scatter, and any raise that would improve the LZ. Ignore Wild Die results that would change the night. They land together. The town stays asleep. Jump Qualified is not used.

§ AT-HAND RULES

Authority: SWADE Fifth Printing (2023), p. 29 "Athletics"; p. 102 "Illumination"

Setting: BG-OH-012 briefing town; en-route flak is fiction

House rule: none

Summary: Athletics on the jump is flavor only. Ignore Wounds, Fatigue, lost gear, scatter, and any raise that would improve the LZ. They land together.

Jump Qualified is not used. Dark in the door.

Applied here: Story Point 0b. Dinkelsbühl stays asleep.

§ AT-HAND RULES

Authority: SWADE Fifth Printing (2023), p. 29 "Athletics"; p. 102 "Illumination";

p. 118 "Occupants" (aircraft / parachute); p. 125 "Bumps & Bruises";

p. 127 "Falling"; p. 122 Dramatic Task example only – do not run one

Setting: Weird War II p. 33 "Parachuting" (rebuild); p. 22 "Jump Qualified"

(not used); p. 14 parachute kit

House rule: none

Summary: Period canopy, rebuilt. Roll Athletics, not Agility. Do not roll a d20 for a failed main. WW2 landing is Agility –2, extra –2 at night, extra –2 in high wind; night here is already Dark – do not stack a second night penalty even as flavor math. Book outcomes you may narrate, not apply: success still drifts off the pin; a raise is a clean opening; a 1 on the Trait die is a tree, wire, or hard PLF; one round to cut the harness on the snow. SWADE wreck-with-chute is Bumps & Bruises on a fail, Falling on a Critical Failure.

Ignore all of that for this night: no Wounds, Fatigue, lost gear, scatter, hanging that benches a player, or a better LZ. They land together, east face, same snow. Fail = ugly ride. Success = clean enough. Raise = a look at walls far off – still the same ditch.

Applied here: Story Point 0b flavor only. Outcome and LZ locked.

SP 1 Wrong face of the walls

MOOD — READ THE ROOM

Mood (table): Heavy January night presses in — snow packed underfoot, breath hanging, wind off black water nearby. A masonry wall looms close, ice and water along one side, a ditch or tree line for cover, and a dark gate-arch further along that shows only a faint glow. Beyond it the town sleeps, silent but for their own breath and water against ice — no alarm, no aircraft, no fight. They are the only intrusion in a calm, cold, short night.

- Goal: they discover they are on the unplanned east face and choose a close. Spend little clock.

- Situation now: together in cover, snow, short night, east / Wörnitz face, south of Wörnitztor, off the Bahnhof. They do not know that when they hit snow. Rehearsed close is Segringer Tor (west). After they orient, mark the actual LZ on the player copy. Distant thin watch at Wörnitztor. No station company. Height and ice are not an opening death gate.
- Spoken lines: none at the LZ (PCs). Gate and other faces: nested locations below.
- Discoverable:

Trait	Fail	Success	Raise ★
Notice (Dark -4)	Water is still there. The map still draws water on the east. No lamp, no better angle.	Lamp or movement at Wörnitztor; that is the near gate. This is not Segringer.	From a better angle, a stick of aerial on Grüner Turm (north wall). That is a head — the aerial they were told to find. Bahnhof is empty of the map's 15-man watch.
Survival (Lang: Woodsman +2 in tree line / fields only)	They can still walk. Lingering exposed can later cost Fatigue (p.125), not a hidden tax at the first minute.	A ditch, postern, or short circuit exists; Segringer is the long west walk.	A close that does not require standing in the gate passage.
Stealth vs gate Notice d4	Challenged. Shout seed. Bypass still exists.	They pass or watch the stove without a fight.	Two tired voices. The town is thin.
Persuasion at the gate (verbal skills Limited by Language, p.32)	They challenge; minutes later a runner or Keller. Postern / circuit / climb still exist.	Talked past.	Someone still walks the north wall; east lanes run toward the old post.

- Pressure/escalation: a circuit shortens the night. Freeze and cold/dawn do the work. If they linger, OBLT. MARTA KELLER's round may reach the east wall later, not at the first minute. If they take the north walk, they can meet her as a sighting (SP4).
- Essential information and vectors: they are on the wet / east face, not the rehearsed west; they can reach town tonight from here; other entrances are not copies of this watch. Water on the map vs water here; rehearsed west gate absent; Lang can name Wörnitztor (not the only vector); a road, ditch, or postern; a distant sound or light from inside. No NPC guide required.
- Failure changes: late, colder, more tired. They still reach a face of the town.
- Reachable next points: dummy building, streets, any head, officer fuse if they make a loud approach.
- PC hook — Lang: she names every gate (Quirk). Useful color; not the only way to know Wörnitztor from Segringer.
- PC hook — Keene: Loyal / Heroic / Stubborn — keep the four together; do not spend them on a long scenic circuit. Not the only scout.

GM ONLY — DO NOT READ ALOUD

GM Note: They can reach town from here (Wörnitztor, a postern, a short circuit, or a longer walk to another face). Other gates are thinner than this pair — Gates and the circuit. The long way only costs time. The live switchboard sits inside on the east walk they may use anyway. A botched gate is noise and a hunt seed, not a failed mission. A failed Notice does not hide the water. The town did not hear this aircraft as a local raid.

§ AT-HAND RULES — NIGHT AND COLD

Authority: SWADE Fifth Printing (2023), p. 102 "Illumination"; p. 125 "Hazards"; p. 50 Woodsman

Setting: none for light; BG-0H-009 for the night clock

House rule: none

Summary: typical night is Dark (-4); targets not visible past 10" (20 yards).

6 Jan 1945 is Last Quarter (moon up around midnight). First half stays Dark.

After moonrise, a clear snow sky or a lamp/stove can be Dim (-2). Pitch Darkness (-6) only in an unlit cellar or sealed room. Cloud over Dinkelsbühl that night is unknown. Lang's Woodsman +2 Stealth in the wild (fields, Wörnitz tree line) only, not in streets or indoors.

Applied here: default Dark at the LZ. Do not apply a hidden Fatigue at the LZ.

If they linger exposed, then Hazards (p.125).

WÖRNITZTOR

- Sensory frame: Ice glazes the gate passage, mill-race dark, and a faint glow leaks from the gatehouse lamp or stove — a stove-smell too, if they get close. Two tired voices carry over the water. A tarped shape sits in a lean-to just inside the gate — a supply

- truck, plainly not going anywhere tonight. This is a thin watch waiting out the night, not a fortress.
- People and forces: two tired Extras (Volkssturm / convalescent). Keller is not here at start. HPTM. FRIEDRICH STEIN is not here at start.
- Environment/hazards: gate passage, gatehouse, ice, short view along the east walk toward Altrathausplatz, a supply yard/lean-to with a tarped Opel Blitz cargo truck (do not flag it as significant now — full detail: Extraction vehicles, below Gates and the circuit).

- Spoken lines: "Halt! Wer da?" (Halt! Who goes there?) / "Papiere. Schnell." (Papers. Quick.)
- Discoverable: Stealth / Persuasion rows in the table above. Success can also tell: town is thin; east lanes toward the old post / Altrathausplatz; the Rathaus is not on this face.
- Changes if delayed: if the fuse lights, this gate is an obvious plug. Dawn puts more eyes here.

GM ONLY — DO NOT READ ALOUD

GM Note: Bypass remains available. Failed gate = noise and time, not "you never enter."

Special Abilities:

Authority: SWADE pp. 87–88, 95, 202; p. 66 Snapfire; Weird War II p.144 Volkssturm, p.152; house rule none

Early-removal mitigated: break-contact is available. Civilians in nearby houses. Do not add a squad.

Same Extra profile for a sleeper at another face (maybe no rifle). Gates and the circuit. Keller: Story Point 4.

OTHER GATES AND THE CIRCUIT

Do not clone the Wörnitztor pair. Full face table:

Gates and the circuit.

- Play the gate they arrive at. A sleeper, if woken: "Lass mich. Die Nacht." (Leave me. The night.)

- If they take the north walk and meet Keller: Story Point 4 (sighting first, not a required fight).
- South face feeds Brandt's street. North face can show the aerial. West face is the briefing close, late.

SP 2 Rathaus (false head)

Optional visit. Skip is allowed — Finding the heads.

MOOD — READ THE ROOM

Mood (table): The wind drops in the square, though the cold still runs down the street. The Rathaus sits on the market street, a civic pile with one lamp lit on the ground floor and no aerial on its roof, tight older lanes closing around it under blackout windows. Almost nothing moves — no hum, no traffic, maybe a stove ticking behind a shutter. This is a town gone to bed, an officers' building standing quiet, not a keep.

- Goal: the real improvisation. They came for the board. The Rathaus is a false head.
- Situation now: they are looking for the landline exchange, not papers and not the aerial. Hofmann on the ground floor with a lamp, stove, old paper if they come in quiet hours. Stein in nearby quarters unless noise or a runner fetches him. Brandt is not here. A habit check at the door is possible (one person). Keller only if her round has been pulled here. Offices, stair, winter blackout, a yard or side door. Not a dungeon.

- Spoken lines: GEFR. LINA HOFMANN, if she talks: "Die Vermittlung ist nicht hier. Die haben umgelegt. Ostzimmer. Ich mache Papier. Ich fahre das Netz nicht." (The exchange isn't here. They cut it over. East rooms. I do paper. I don't run the net.) If they ask about a tower, a radio, or why the building is dead: "Der Nordturm redet noch. Das ist nicht dieses Haus." (The north tower still talks. That's not this house.) If they press the books: "Die Bücher hat der Feldwebel. Richtung Nördlinger." (The Feldwebel has the books. Toward Nördlinger.) Stein, if woken: "Das ist noch immer mein Gebäude. Wer ist in meinem Haus?" (This is still my building. Who is in my house?)

- Discoverable:

Trait	Fail	Success	Raise ★
Notice	Civic pile, quiet, no aerial here , no hum. A rushed glance may still read "military enough."	Not an exchange. Dead wire stub or cut-over tag in a closet or cellar points east , not at the church. If they have a north view (street, stair, window): a stick of aerial on the north wall still live — that is the loft .	Leftover note: work to the old post / Altrathausplatz; books with the signals NCO toward Nördlinger.
Persuasion vs Hofmann	She freezes or clams. Leftover still exists (wire, tag, empty board room, habit patrol).	Board moved east; books with the Feldwebel toward Nördlinger.	Stein and Keller still treat this as their office. She can name FW. OTTO BRANDT.

- Pressure/escalation: time here is time the watch can move papers or wake a stronger eye. Loud work brings Stein downstairs and Keller off her round. Dawn fills the square with ordinary eyes.
- Essential information and vectors: they came for the board. This building is a false head; leftover still points the board east (Altrathausplatz) and the books toward Nördlinger. Loft is the aerial they can see if they look, or a wreck-tell if they already killed it. Dummy leftover; street observation; civilians or a clerk; officers' routines; cut or followed wire. They may skip the books if loft + board are already dead.
- Failure changes: time or noise at the wrong door. The three real heads remain findable.
- Reachable next points: any of the three heads; officer attention if they were loud.
- Optional / PC hook: visiting the dummy building is optional. PC hook — Krajewski: Driven — wreck what actually passes traffic, not masonry for its own sake. PC hook — Vasseur: Curious — the stale package offends her trade; she wants the real net.

GM ONLY — DO NOT READ ALOUD

GM Note: The Rathaus is a false head. They came for the switchboard. Cutting this building does not count. It can light the fuse. Give a tell if they treat it as a win: if the aerial still lives, it is still on the north wall; if they already killed the loft, a line still alive or leftover still points at board / books. Hofmann is one leftover, not the only one. HQ's circle is explainable (old post house until 1855) and still wrong. Brandt is not here. If they forget they need two heads, restate the hydra rule. Stein keeps a Kübelwagen in a plank lean-to off Weinmarkt, near his quarters — a sighting now, an extraction option later (Extraction vehicles, below Gates and the circuit).

Hold the Line! applies once he is directing a hunt: extras in Command Range (5" / 10 yards) get +1 Toughness.

They are still Extras. No off-map battalion. Rank (Officer) extra Benny not applied (WW2 p.21). Natural Leader is not on either officer, so Leadership Edges do not buff player Wild Cards. Four Seasoned should win a straight fight and pay in noise. Use this block again if he appears in SP6.

SP 3 SwitchboardMOOD — READ THE ROOM

Mood (table): Heat closes in after the cold street, the room lit low by a night lamp. Cable runs to a live switchboard where two operators work, a back door open onto the lanes, dwellings pressed against the walls. Clicks and low winter traffic carry over a line that can still speak — and lives carry through the wall next door. This room is awake; the square outside it is not.

- Goal: one head. Killing it is one of the two hits needed.

- Situation now: in town, watched by the signals detachment more than by street garrison. Civilians live nearby. Brandt is not in this square. Two signals Extras. A runner only after trouble. Stein / Keller only after the fuse. Benoit's cellar is near, not in the exchange. Interior, cables, a back door to the lanes. Fire here is a civilian problem.
- Spoken lines: An operator, if they come in loud: "Board's live — don't cut that." If they try to scream: "I still have a line—"
- Discoverable:

Trait	Fail	Success	Raise ★
Notice	A warm working room.	Live switchboard. This is not the Rathaus.	Loft on the north wall (Grüner Turm); papers with Brandt toward Nördlinger. A smashed board with no papers and a live aerial is one head.
Electronics	They can still smash, cut, kill power, or fire.	They can still raise out of town if the loft lives.	Landline scream is possible if loft and papers live. Repair of electronic gear is Limited by Electronics (p.34).

- Where to pin it: the square is not labeled on BG-OH-001. Inside the wall, first open square inward from the Posten Wörnitz Tor circle, the Münster's choir across it, the church mass between it and the Weinmarkt, the red Rathaus box further on. Do not say the name to the players — it is the old town-hall square behind the church.
- Pressure/escalation: if left intact while another part dies, operators can patch or scream. If hit first and loudly, officers start the local hunt. Dawn → more traffic, more people.
- Essential information and vectors: this is the switchboard; it can still pass landline traffic if loft and papers live. Cut-over / wire from the Rathaus east; lamp or hum on Altrathausplatz; Wörnitztor east walk; operator or leftover talk. Not “enter Wörnitztor or the night stops.”

- Failure changes: failed entry, alarm, or a botched wreck leaves the board wounded or still up. Other heads remain.
- Reachable next points: loft, papers, extraction, fuse.
- PC hook — Vasseur / Krajewski: both can wreck a set (Repair d8, Mr. Fix It). Smash and fire still work if Repair fails. Not unique keys.

GM ONLY — DO NOT READ ALOUD

GM Note: Killing this is one hit. Loft + papers still complete the job. Coming through Wörnitztor can put them nearby without handing them the room. Fire here is a civilian problem.

× AT-HAND STATISTICS — 2 OPERATORS (EXTRAS)

Signals operator Extra (×2) – Extra

Attributes: Agility d6, Smarts d6, Spirit d6, Strength d6, Vigor d6

Skills: Athletics d4, Electronics d6, Fighting d4, Notice d6, Repair d4, Shooting d6, Stealth d4

Pace: 6; Parry: 4; Toughness: 5 (helmet if they grabbed it)

Gear: one P38 each; one of the two may have an MP40 on a hook (12/24/48, 2d6–1, RoF 3, 32 shots, AP 1, Auto). No squad MG.

Special Abilities:

– Extra: one Wound Incapacitates

Personality: keep the board useful or get out and scream

Authority: SWADE p.31 Electronics; pp. 87–88, 95, 202; p.105 Auto / Recoil –2; Weird War II p.144 quality floor, p.152; house rule none

Recoil –2 on Auto unless the shooter does not move and has Rock and Roll! (these extras do not). Do not add Brandt to this room.

PVT. LOUIS BENOIT (CELLAR) — OPTIONAL, SAME EAST CLUSTER

- Sensory frame: Cold settles in the cellar, pitch black if no one's lit it. Stolen food is stacked in a corner, no uniform on the hanger — and if they look closely, a man hiding in the dark. The street sounds muffled overhead; up close, his breath is the only other sound. This is someone hiding, not a fight.

- People and forces: PVT. LOUIS BENOIT. Neighbors who may or may not know.

- Spoken lines: PVT. LOUIS BENOIT, if they find him: "Ne tirez pas. Français." (Don't shoot. French.) If they want a guide: "Je ne marche pas en ville. Je reste en dessous." (I don't walk the town. I stay under it.)
- Discoverable:

Trait	Fail	Success	Raise ★
Notice (Pitch Darkness -6 if unlit)	Cold cellar, stolen food.	A hidden man; east quarter is where signals people live and work.	Rathaus is officers, not the board. Anything else he knows is extra, not load-bearing.
Persuasion	He stays hidden or runs. Heads remain findable without him.	Contact; extra eyes.	He will not walk them to every head unless the table makes that true.

- Changes if delayed: a hunt makes this cellar hotter. Dawn makes leaving with him louder.

GM ONLY — DO NOT READ ALOUD

GM Note: Re-entry and extra eyes. Not a required guide. Not a unique clue. Same-night chair if a PC is removed.

× AT-HAND STATISTICS — BENOIT (EXTRA, PROMOTABLE)

Pvt. Louis Benoit – Extra (promotable)
Attributes: Agility d6, Smarts d6, Spirit d6, Strength d6, Vigor d6
Skills: Athletics d6, Fighting d4, Notice d6, Persuasion d4, Shooting d4, Stealth d6;
Language (French) d8, Language (German) d4
Pace: 6; Parry: 4; Toughness: 5
Gear: knife, stolen civilian clothes, maybe a P38 with almost no ammunition
Personality: wants to stay hidden and alive; not a combat solution
Authority: SWADE pp. 31–32, 87–88, 202–203; Weird War II p.12 recommended skills only;
house rule none

If promoted to a temporary PC: Wild Die and 3 Bennies (SWADE p.87). Prefer CPL. PIETER VOSS if you want a finished Seasoned sheet.

SP 4 Aerial or radio loft

MOOD — READ THE ROOM

Mood (table): Wind and ice bite harder up here than in the streets below, the tower's tight stair climbing to a wall-walk glazed with ice. From the right angle, a stick of aerial shows against the north wall — a tall tower, not the church bulk elsewhere in town. Wind is the loudest thing, though the set hums if they get close, and a step on ice carries. This is exposed ground, one watch instead of a fortress roof — sound will travel here.

- Goal: second head. Grüner Turm, north wall. Aerial visible in principle.
- Situation now: more exposed than the switchboard; winter wind and height; a small watch, not a fortress roof. One Extra at start. Keller's round passes this stretch. Feed line runs down the masonry to a join reachable from the wall-walk or the base.
- Spoken lines: Loft watch, if they come up the stair: "Stay off the set."
- Discoverable:

Trait	Fail	Success	Raise ★
Notice	A tall north tower, wind.	Aerial or feed visible. The church is not the aerial.	Feed-line join at the base or wall-walk; a runner path toward the board or Brandt.
Athletics (ice / height / climb)	Slip is a recoverable setback: noise, maybe a Wound, not a bench at first contact. Feed at the base remains a method.	They reach the loft or the feed.	Quieter. The watch may not hear.

- Where to pin it: Grüner Turm, north wall. Board dead → they still try radio. Papers gone → less useful traffic.
- Pressure/escalation: a living loft can call out of town once the watch believes the raid is real. Fuse → Keller arrives with a pair, not a company.
- Essential information and vectors: this is the radio loft / aerial; killing it guts air traffic; landline may still live. Skyline; wire run; sentry pattern; someone who hates the noise or the light.
- Failure changes: fall, noise, or a missed charge. Other two heads remain.
- Reachable next points: switchboard, papers, extraction, fuse.

- PC hook — Lang: Woodsman does not apply on the wall-walk or indoors. Extraction can get someone off a tight stair. Not the only way to kill the feed.

GM ONLY — DO NOT READ ALOUD

GM Note: Loft and feed are one head. Switchboard + papers still complete the job. Keller's round is a sighting, not the key to the tower. Climbing is not the only method (feed line at the base, fire from below, cutting stays). A dispatch motorcycle-and-sidecar (Zündapp KS 750) leans under a lean-to at the tower's base, kept ready by the loft watch's runner — see Extraction vehicles, below Gates and the circuit.

× AT-HAND STATISTICS — LOFT WATCH (1 EXTRA)

Loft watch Extra – Extra

Attributes: Agility d6, Smarts d6, Spirit d6, Strength d6, Vigor d6

Skills: Athletics d6, Fighting d6, Notice d6, Shooting d6, Stealth d6

Pace: 6; Parry: 5; Toughness: 5 (helmet +2 vs head)

Gear: Kar 98K or MP40, 1x Stielhandgranate (5/10/20, 3d6-2, MBT, Athletics to throw), steel helmet. Set is live.

Personality: keep the set live; raise out of town if they believe the raid

Authority: SWADE pp. 29, 87–88, 93, 95; Weird War II p.144 Novice infantry, p.152; house rule none

Novice, not Experienced (no Dodge / Rock and Roll!). Voss / Benoit if someone still goes down.

KELLER'S NIGHT ROUND (NORTH WALL)

- Trigger: they are seen on the north wall-walk, at Grüner Turm, or a shout pulls her off her stretch. First contact is a sighting, not a required fight.
- Spoken lines: "Die Wache ist heute Nacht meine. Runter von der Mauer." (The watch is mine tonight. Off the wall.) After the fuse she may pick up an MP40. Hunt shout: Story Point 6.

GM ONLY — DO NOT READ ALOUD

GM Note: She orders the thin watch. She is a possible loft sighting, not the key to the tower. She can reach the east face later if they linger. She does not have Hold the Line! — that sits on Stein (SP2). World rule: gender is not a question. A pair of extras only after the fuse, not a company.

× AT-HAND STATISTICS — KELLER (WILD CARD)

Oblt. Marta Keller – Wild Card

Attributes: Agility d6, Smarts d6, Spirit d6, Strength d6, Vigor d6

Skills: Athletics d6, Battle d6, Fighting d6, Notice d8, Persuasion d6, Shooting d6, Stealth d6

Pace: 6; Parry: 5; Toughness: 5 (helmet +2 vs head)

Edges: Command (p.45), Combat Reflexes (p.41 – +2 to recover from Shaken)

Gear: P38 at start. After the fuse she may pick up an MP40. Steel helmet, binoculars, greatcoat, whistle or lamp.

Special Abilities:

– Wild Card: Wild Die; 2 Bennies when she appears (p.89)

Personality: night duty / deputy; the night watch does its job; not a side change

Authority: SWADE pp. 41, 45, 87–89; Weird War II p.144 officer, p.152; house rule none

Rank Benny omitted. Use this block again if she appears in SP6.

SP 5 Papers and the signals NCOMOOD — READ THE ROOM

Mood (table): Wood smoke hangs over an ordinary blackout street, the wind gentler here than up on the wall. The room is a commandeered billet — stove, cot, a satchel or drawer — with the street running off toward a southeast gate. It reads domestic, not a staff HQ: just the stove ticking, a quiet lane, maybe a sleeper somewhere far off. One NCO and a bag, nothing more.

- Goal: third head. Codebooks and traffic. The NCO is a person, not a locked box.
- Situation now: papers move. Default start:
Brandt's billet on Nördlinger Straße, not on Altrathausplatz and not in the Rathaus. The bag may be on him, in the room, or in motion. A runner only after trouble. Stein and Keller know he holds the books; they are not standing over him. One or two rooms, a street door, a way toward Wörnitztor or the board.

- Spoken lines: FW. OTTO BRANDT: "Die Bücher bleiben bei mir." (The books stay with me.) If he runs: he does not speechify; he moves the satchel toward a gate, the board, a stove, or Stein's office.
- Discoverable:

Trait	Fail	Success	Raise ★
Notice	Stove, cot, a satchel or drawer.	Live books / last traffic in the satchel.	Rathaus is not the exchange; board on Altrathausplatz; loft is the north tower; he can name Stein / Keller.
Persuasion	He keeps or moves the bag. Other heads remain.	Steal, freeze, or they learn burn / scatter counts; he need not die.	He names the board and loft.
Repair / smash / fire	A botch is noise or an unconfirmed burn. Give a sign if he burns the books (smoke, empty drawer, his flight). Do not hide a silent auto-success.	Papers useless.	Confirmed kill of this head.

- Where to pin it: the street is not labeled on BG-OH-001. From the Posten Nördlinger Tor circle (bottom right), follow the wide street inward toward the church; the billet sits on the gate half of that run, past the 4/I.R. 468 marker, well short of the market. An ordinary house block. Keep it a clear walk from the Wörnitz Tor circle — board and books are two trips, not one cluster. Tell the players a direction, not a street name. If the bag moves: re-pin at the Altrathausplatz board, a gate (Nördlinger is his nearest), the billet stove, or Stein's office at the Rathaus.

- Pressure/escalation: if the raid is loud, papers try to leave town or burn on German terms. If ignored, they keep the hydra useful even after a smashed set. Dawn → he may walk to the exchange.

- Essential information and vectors: where the live papers are tonight. NCO's habits; a clerk; a satchel; dummy-site leftover; an officer who knows who holds the books.
- Failure changes: NCO escapes with the bag, or the bag is destroyed where the PCs cannot confirm. Other heads remain. The NCO is not the only path to the main plot.
- Reachable next points: remaining heads, fuse, extraction.

- Optional: capturing Brandt. PC hook — Krajewski: counts charges aloud (Quirk) if they blow a stove or a drawer; smash still works.

GM ONLY — DO NOT READ ALOUD

GM Note: Steal, burn, or scatter can kill this head. Brandt need not die. If the bag leaves, it is still findable (board, gate, stove, Stein's office). Switchboard + loft still complete the job without him. Chase: SWADE p.113 only if you actually run it; otherwise a short street situation. Rank (NCO) +2 Toughness not applied. He stays an Extra. Early capture of a PC here is recoverable the same night (Benoit or Voss).

× AT-HAND STATISTICS — BRANDT (EXTRA)

Fw. Otto Brandt — Extra

Attributes: Agility d6, Smarts d8, Spirit d6, Strength d6, Vigor d6

Skills: Athletics d4, Electronics d6, Fighting d4, Notice d6, Repair d6, Shooting d6, Stealth d6

Pace: 6; Parry: 4; Toughness: 5

Gear: P38, satchel (live books / last traffic) in the room or on him, greatcoat. Helmet if he had time.

Personality: papers stay useful and in German hands; not a boss fight

Authority: SWADE pp. 87–88, 95, 202; Chase p.113 only if you run a chase; Weird War II p.21 Rank NPC clause; house rule none

SP 6 Fuse and extraction

MOOD — READ THE ROOM

Mood (table): The same winter night presses on, cold enough that sound carries — first light shows only if the dawn clock has run out. Tight lanes hold snow in the ruts, a church bulk against the skyline, windows blacked out or starting to wake. If the fuse is lit, shutters bang to a curfew shout and a pair working the lanes; if not, the town is still asleep. This is the night they earned — still thin, or already a hunt.

- Goal: end the night under the cost they earned.
- Situation now: hollow town becoming a hunt or a waking street. Named officers act as the fuse, not as a battalion arriving by teleport. Reachable after noise, dawn, a wounded hydra scream, or they choose to leave. Civilians behind shutters; thin street watch only if already woken; a signals runner if the hydra is busy or wounded; Benoit only if they find that cellar. Keller is on the north wall at start, not every street. Ice, corners, wall-walk access at towers, almost no motors.

- Spoken lines: Stein, if directing: "Hebt ab, wer noch antwortet." (Raise whoever still answers.) Keller, if the hunt is hers: "Paar auf die Gassen. Ausgangssperre. Holt sie." (Pair on the lanes. Curfew. Get them.) A civilian shutter, if dragged in: they want to survive the winter, not solve the hydra. Woken-building Stein and wall Keller: SP2 and SP4.
- Discoverable:

Trait	Fail	Success	Raise ★
Notice	Tight lanes, more eyes than at the LZ.	Whether a call went out; which gate woke.	Whether the bag left town; which head still lives.
Stealth in streets (no Woodsman)	Spotted; hunt seed. Other exits remain.	They use a gate or wall they already know.	They leave by a quieter face. None of these is the only exit.
Repair (start a placed vehicle without its key, or the Blitz's cold engine)	Costs a few minutes and engine noise; it still starts.	Running, quietly enough.	Running, and quiet — no noise cue nearby.

- Pressure/escalation: dawn; a successful out-of-town call if two heads still live or landline still speaks; hostage or curfew if officers are provoked. Fuse → pairs on lanes, a curfew shout, papers in motion. Dawn → more windows, more witnesses.
- Essential information and vectors: whether the hydra can still call; which way out is still open; what the civilian constraint has already cost. Their own route; a gate or wall they already used; hiding until another hour; one of three placed vehicles (Stein's Kübelwagen, the loft's dispatch motorcycle-and-sidecar, or the Opel Blitz truck at Wörnitztor — Extraction vehicles, below Gates and the circuit). Streets can also show: aerial on Grüner Turm from a north or high angle; hum or lamp at Altrathausplatz; empty feel at the Rathaus as an exchange.
- Failure changes: costly exit, capture of gear, a PC down after they have already played. Mission result (hydra dead or not) is already decided by then or still decidable in flight.
- Reachable next points: end states.

GM ONLY — DO NOT READ ALOUD

GM Note: An alarm is a hunt in these streets first. Out-of-town help needs a living hydra or a long delay. They can leave by more than one face. A long chase is a pacing cut. Standing constraint: torching the civilian town or a massacre is a costly outcome (hunt, officers, conscience, extraction), not a hidden automatic fail. First light; a successful out-of-town call only if two heads still live or landline still speaks. Wörnitztor thin at start; other faces quieter. Map numbers are false. Gate-name corrections: Rules quick reference.

Hunt extras after the fuse: still a hollow town. Start with one pair of Volkssturm / convalescent extras (same block as Wörnitztor, SP1). Add Keller (SP4) and/or Stein (SP2) when the fiction puts them there. Do not empty other pins — move them. Do not add Experienced Wehrmacht, Dodge, Rock and Roll!, or MG42 teams. After they have acted in town, lethality is on. Communicate it. Four Seasoned vs two extras is still favored; vs two extras + a Wild Card officer it is a real fight. If violence begins at a gate: delaying action, not a required last stand.

× AT-HAND STATISTICS — HUNT PAIR (AFTER THE FUSE)

Same profile as Wörnitztor watch (2 Extras, SP1). If Stein is within Command Range (5" / 10 yards), Hold the Line! gives those extras +1 Toughness (SWADE p.45). They are still Extras. Natural Leader is not on either officer.

§ AT-HAND RULES

Authority: SWADE p.45 Command / Hold the Line!; p.102 Illumination; p.125 Hazards if still exposed
 Setting: Weird War II p.21 Rank NPC bonuses not applied
 House rule: none
 Applied here: local hunt only. Do not import Experienced infantry, Dodge, Rock and Roll!, or MG42.

What the players know, and when

Do not hide the hydra rule. Hand the three types at briefing. Do not dump the three real locations.

When	They are told / they learn	Still secret
SPo — briefing	Operation Hinterland. Night of 6–7 Jan. Nordwind is the clock; Dinkelsbühl is the target. November sheet: walls, east water, four gates. West DZ / Segringer Tor. Thin rear garrison. The station is a hydra . Three heads: the board (landline exchange), the aerial , and the books (traffic). Cut two and it dies (one still talks). HQ pinned the Rathaus as the exchange . Find the aerial and the books on the ground. Stein and Keller named, not the objective. No second mission. Extraction after two heads are off.	The Rathaus is a false head (not the exchange). Where the live board, loft, and books actually sit. They will land east.
SP1 — landing	They are on the east / water face, not the rehearsed west. An aerial on the north wall is a head if they spot it (Notice raise at the LZ, or success from a north/high view in town).	Same secrets as above, minus the east face.
SP2 or they read the town	The Rathaus is not the exchange. They came here for the board . Leftover / Hofmann points the board east (old post / Altrathausplatz) and the books toward Nördlinger . Loft is still the aerial they can see.	Live pins until they find them.
When they find a real head	That site is a head. If they forget the two-cut rule, restate it . One head off is not the job. They may skip the books if board + loft are already dead.	—

Ward believes the Rathaus is a real head. He is not classroom.
lying. The false-head twist is on the ground, not in the

Finding the heads (GM)

Player picture after briefing (this is what they think they are doing):

1. Kill the board (landline exchange) at the Rathaus — that is HQ's pin. They are not looking for papers in that building. 2. Find the aerial in town — no pin. A Notice from a north or high angle can spot it (raise at the LZ under Dark –4; success once they have a closer north/high view). 3. Find the books (traffic, codes) — no pin, no name. A type they know they still need unless two other heads are already dead.

Locations stay GM-copy until found. They do not need the Rathaus. Not a visit order. Rolls live in SP2–5.

Head	Where (GM copy)	How they find the place (need two channels; three is better)	After the Rathaus is empty of an exchange
Board	Altrathausplatz, east, on the walk in from Wörnitztor	They already know the type . The question at the dummy is “where did the board go?” (1) Hofmann / leftover: east, old post rooms. (2) Dead wire / cut-over east , not at the church. (3) Lamp or hum on Altrathausplatz; east walk from Wörnitztor; operator talk.	They came for the switchboard. Interrogating Hofmann is the natural next move. She is not the only vector.
Loft	Grüner Turm, north wall	They already know the type . (1) Skyline from a north or high angle. (2) Feed line at the base. (3) Keller's stretch is a sighting , not the key.	Dummy wreck tell if they already killed the aerial: a line still alive, or leftover still points at the board / books. If the aerial is still up, they can see it from the square.
Books	Brandt's billet, Nördlinger Straße (SE) at start; the satchel can move	They already know the type , not the man. (1) Hofmann / leftover: Feldweibel toward Nördlinger. (2) Operators at the live board: papers with Brandt. (3) Stein or Keller know who holds the books; satchel in motion.	They are not looking for papers at the Rathaus . They ask “who holds the traffic?” after they know the board is not here — or they skip this head if loft + board are already dead.

If they skip the Rathaus: streets still pay — aerial from a north/high angle, hum/lamp at Altrathausplatz. If they hit one humming room and stop: aerial still live and/or papers not in the room. One head is not the job; restate the hydra rule.

Hofmann, Benoit, or one officer is never the only vector. Wire, skyline, and the live rooms still work if a person freezes or dies.

Gates and the circuit (GM)

Hollow town. Do not put a Wörnitztor-style pair at every entrance. Closing from the east LZ is a short correction, not a travel scenario. A circuit = lost time (night shortens), then they are on another face. Play the gate they arrive at, not the walk. Same Extra profile as Wörnitztor (SP1) if you place a sleeper; do not stack pairs.

Face	Start watch	If they contour / go there	Interaction
Wörnitztor (east, near LZ)	2 extras, stove	Immediate close	Challenge a loud close. Talk, slip, or fight. Bypass still exists.
Nördlinger Tor (SE)	Empty, or 1 sleeper (same Extra, Notice d4; maybe no rifle)	South circuit from the LZ: shorter than west. Inside: Brandt's street.	Quieter. A sleeper wants to be left alone. Noise still seeds a hunt.
Rothenburger Tor (north)	Gate empty . Keller is on the wall-walk between this gate and Grüner Turm, not sitting in the passage.	North circuit: ice; possible Keller sighting; aerial may show.	The gate is not a fight. The walk is where Keller is (stats: SP4). First contact is a sighting, not a required fight.
Segringer Tor (west, rehearsed)	Empty or 1 sleeper	Long circuit north or south. Night shortens. Rathaus is just inside.	They get the briefing close late. Do not invent a company because this was the plan.
Postern / climb / short circuit	No dedicated watch	Survival raise at the LZ: a close that does not stand in the gate passage. Ice. Not a death gate.	If they linger on the wall, Keller's north stretch is the risk, not a sentry at every tower.
Bahnhof	Empty or 1 sleeper. Map's 15-man watch is stale.	Not a door into the Altstadt. Not a fourth head.	Ignore, or one tired man.

If the fuse is already lit, the gate they used becomes an obvious plug. Other faces stay thinner. Do not add a squad.

EXTRACTION VEHICLES (GM)

Three placed, concrete exits for Story Point 6 — none required, none the only way out. These are the only running vehicles in town tonight.

Vehicle	Where	State	Capacity	Risk
Stein's Kübelwagen (VW Type 82)	Plank lean-to off Weinmarkt, near his quarters (Rathaus area)	Near-full tank — he uses it for rounds. Keys are on him or inside, not in it.	4, tight	Repair (-2) and a full round to start without the key; failure grinds and carries — close enough to wake Stein if he is still there.
Loft's dispatch motorcycle-and-sidecar (Zündapp KS 750)	Lean-to at the base of Grüner Turm	Keys on the machine; the runner keeps it ready. First kick.	2 (rider + sidecar)	Loud. Sits at the foot of the loft watch — using it before or during that head's fight draws that watch immediately.
Opel Blitz cargo truck	Supply yard/lean-to just inside Wörnitztor	Battery pulled for winter; quarter tank — enough to clear town, not the front.	Cab (2) + open bed (rest of party and gear)	Repair to cold-start (SWADE p.34): success is quiet enough, failure costs a few minutes and noise, not the vehicle.

Sighted, not flagged, the first time the PCs pass each site (Wörnitztor in SP1; Rathaus in SP2; Grüner Turm in SP4). No chase mechanics — a long vehicle chase is a named pacing cut elsewhere in this adventure.

Escalation and clocks

Trigger/time	Change in situation	Visible warning	Effect on objective
Time on the dummy site	Night shortens	Empty rooms, leftover wire	Hydra still up
One head dead, two live	Hydra wounded	Traffic stutters; watch moves papers	Can still scream
Two heads dead	Hydra gutted	Silence, or a hunt with no call	Main job done
Dawn	More eyes	Light, smoke, gates waking	Extraction expensive
Officers lit	Local hunt / curfew	Named people moving	Out-of-town help only if a path still lives
Linger exposed	Cold tax	Fatigue, ice, shorter night	Time spent is time the hydra still works

Failure-forward reference

Likely failure	Immediate consequence	New pressure/opportunity	Main plot remains reachable through
Long way around the walls	Lost time	Closer gate later	Any head
Kit ask refused	Team kit unchanged	They still jump	Planned DZ + Rathaus already marked
Ugly jump roll	Description only	Same snow, together	Story Point 1
Failed Notice at the LZ	No lamp, no aerial yet	Water still on the map and in front of them	Survival; Lang names the near gate; they can still close
Wreck only dummy site	Noise, no kill	Leftover still points onward	Two real heads
Botched loft climb	Noise, setback, not a bench	Feed line, another approach	Other two heads
NCO flees with bag	Papers in motion	Chase or hit the other two	Switchboard + loft
Loud first fight	Fuse starts	Hunt; civilians	Remaining heads; leave after
Hofmann freezes or dies	Dummy leftover dies	Wire stub, tag, empty board room	Real heads by reading the town
Brandt burns the books	That head may die without them	Smoke, empty drawer, his flight	Board + loft; do not hide the sign
They win the east board in ten minutes and stop	False full success	Aerial still live and/or papers not in the room	Remaining heads

PC spotlight and safety

- Opening hard-removal: mitigated (jump is flavor only; together in cover; no required fight). Orientation is not a single Notice gate. Wrong-face correction is short and not a fall-to-death gate. Dummy building is optional and not a fortress. First violence has an out (break contact, civilians, thin watch).
- Replacement/re-entry: fifth pregen Cpl. Pieter Voss (missed this lift; finds the team after the first hour, or starts as a fifth). Allied Extra Pvt. Louis Benoit (cellar / loft / dummy-site office). Neither is the only intel source. Captured PC becomes a mobile stake the others can reach the same night, or the player takes the reserve immediately. Do not leave a player in the hall.
- Full lethality: after they have acted in town and the fuse is visible (shots, a hunt, a loft fight, papers on the run). Communicate it. Not invisible immunity in the opening, and not a coin-flip corpse before they have played.
- Spotlight hooks: Slot 1 (Keene) approach and not splitting — starts in the briefing room. Slot 2 (Krajewski) making a head stay dead — counts charges at the table. Slot 3 (Vasseur) reading the net — November date in the pack. Slot 4 (Lang) ground and recovery — names Segringer, then Wörnitztor.

- Hindrance cues (not unique keys): Keene — Heroic, Loyal, Stubborn (hold the four; do not spend them on the dummy). Krajewski — Driven, counts charges aloud. Vasseur — Curious, Cautious (stale package; she can still smash). Lang — Heroic, names every gate. Relationships: Keene trusts Lang’s eyes; needs Krajewski’s wrecking; German overlap with Vasseur so talk is not one PC.

World rule: gender is not a question. No gendered cover assignment. Civilian coats and papers are team

Agendas: Ward wants them in the air with the plan he believes. Stein wants order in his town. Keller wants the night watch to work. Brandt wants papers useful and in German hands. Hofmann wants the night to pass. Signals want the net up. Civilians want to survive. Dawn and weather do not negotiate.

Default is talk, freeze, or get through the night. Fight only if the fiction puts a weapon in play. Civilians are pressure, not a puzzle. Standing constraint if the town is torched or massacred.

GM secrets

Clearly GM-only. Predetermined truths, not session history. Full text: secrets.md.

1. The briefing named the wrong building. The Rathaus is a false head. Officers may still keep an office there. Fair leftover: that building was the imperial post house (until 1855). CAPT. ELLIS WARD believes it is a real head. Cutting it does not count. 2. The hydra has three heads. Board (Altrathausplatz), loft (Grüner Turm), books with Brandt (Nördlinger Straße start). Cut any two and the hydra dies. Hitting one and leaving is a wounded hydra — partial or fail, not a hidden rule. The hydra rule and the three types are handed at briefing. Locations stay GM-copy until found. Ward pins the Rathaus as the exchange; it is a false head. 3. The fuse is officers, not a hidden army. Stein and Keller can escalate (curfew, hunt, a call if the hydra still lives). There is no off-map battalion waiting on one Stealth fail. Out-of-town help needs a living path and time. En-route flak does not wake this town. 4. The drop misses. Ward marked west / Segringer Tor. Weather and a dark DZ put them on the east / Wörnitz face, together. This is opening trouble, not a second twist. The dummy Rathaus remains the one twist. 5. Standing fictions. The raid, the hydra, the 4-person team, this briefing and night strip at Pont-à-Mousson, and women in ordinary combat ranks on both sides are invented. Dinkelsbühl's walls, winter, rear-area quiet in January 1945, and Pont-à-Mousson as Allied rear are the researched frame. Players need the world rule (gender is not a question). They do not need a lecture on which facts are fake.

REVELATION AUDIT (IF THEY MISS A VECTOR)

Essential revelation	Still reachable through
They are on the east face, not the rehearsed west	Water on the map vs water here; missing Segringer; Lang names Wörnitztor
Briefing building is not the hydra	Skyline / feed; leftover; they can still kill two real heads
Hydra has three heads	Observation of aerial + board + runner; hitting two obvious real sites still works
Where the switchboard is	Loft + papers still complete the job
Where the loft is	Switchboard + papers still complete the job
Where the papers are	Switchboard + loft still complete the job

End states

- Full success: any two heads dead; papers useless if they were one of the two; officers not yet able to call real help; team leaves in the dark.
- Costly success: hydra dead; dawn, wounded, civilian harm, or a loud hunt on the way out.
- Partial success: only one head off; hydra wounded; a call may go out; extraction expensive; southern-front help delayed, not stopped.
- Main-objective failure: two heads still live, or papers plus one live path still pass traffic. They may still escape. The window of German coordination holds.
- Unexpected resolution: papers stolen instead of burned; an officer captured; the town bloodied; the dummy site blamed and the real net quiet for a night for the wrong reason. Record what actually happened; do not rewrite unused prep as history.

- Rewards / advancement: this table can stop here. If you continue these characters, grant 1 Advance (SWADE p.54) after the recap. No loot that changes the night. Bennies reset next session.
- Continuing hook (optional): a call that got out; papers in Allied hands; a named officer who saw their faces. A one-shot does not need this.

Consequences to record after play: which heads died; whether a call went out; civilian harm; named officers' fates; who left alive; any ruling made at the table. Dated recap — do not edit this file into history.
